

Studio Criteria

We are looking for:

- Artists, makers and creatives who will regularly and frequently work in the studio;
- Work that is contemporary, unique, demonstrates a high level of skill, or otherwise shows potential;
- Those pursuing professional practice, which could include but is not limited to: showing work in galleries, selling work, appearing in publications, undertaking residencies, securing funding, working to commission, teaching, innovating in their work;
- Those with an engaged following - customers, participants, peers, apprentices, students, commentators or audiences;
- Relevant creative businesses that can support the business models of artists and makers.

We prioritize talent, potential, ambition and professionalism. It's important to us that our Studio Members have an impact beyond their personal creative practice.

We advertise studio vacancies through our website, social media, and newsletter. Follow us to find out when studios are available.

Please be aware that we receive high levels of interest when studios come vacant, and only accept expressions of interest when spaces are available. To register your interest, you must complete our form to supply information about your requirements and your practice/creative business. We will use your website/social media to see examples of your work and learn about your projects and achievements.
